From The Desk of Editor-in-Chief

The Banking and Financial Sector has been heavily affected by the Covid-19 pandemic due to lock down all over the country, slow movement of economy, low demand and various other allied factors.

However under the Atmanirbhar Bharat initiative government is giving a big boost to make in India to reduce dependence primarily on China and other countries. Boycott of China has already started and in many sector already the import has been reduced to great extent. This will help to reduce foreign exchange outflow and enhance the economy of the country.

Banking Industry has been advised by the Central Government to provide easy unsecured loans to the small and marginal self employed people which is supposed to bring economy to a high end. However PSU Banks has always been at the receiving end due to huge NPA in loans due to these populist measures.

Central Government has been giving much importance to the Agriculture Sector to create confidence amongst the farmers and the people engaged with agriculture sector. Monsoon has been satisfactory in most part of the country and the Government is planning to export the agriculture produce to other countries.

Overall the banking sector has started coming on track but still until the economy comes on track it would be quite difficult to work aggressively in this sector. There are high chances of NPA in loans once the moratorium for loan ends. Lakhs of people have lost their job and businesses are also under tremendous pressure to maintain liquidity due to low demand and lockdown.
